

Hi this is The Guy R Cook Report of course and one thing I wanted to mention that Thursday coming Thanksgiving we won't have an episode available just holidays got us too busy but today we're having an episode and it's gonna be about the marketing secrets that will help your resume get noticed now you know recently we just talked about the 11 best sites to post your resume into the locations. Well there are some tips and tricks for having that perform even better the five marketing secrets we'll have that link in the show notes if you go to The Guy R Cook Report dot podbean dot com and give that look and you know I was thinking is if you use the Google campaign URL builder to make those links that you're going to share into those 11 different sites that'll make them that much more traceable and those traceable links will give you better statistics and so then you know what I'm thinking you could sell that information as research you've done on sharing your resume on these sites blah blah blah and you might not need a job well of course you probably would anyway you have a good day, the rest of the week to you the episode of The Guy R Cook Report thanks to SiteGround thanks to Coding Brains and on that note I'm going to say, it's a wrap.